FRANCHISE “A” REGISTRATION BOXES

In early 1990 a new Registration System was introduced into Canada which made the existing “R” type Registration Boxes obsolete. At the same time the new Franchise “A” post offices were being established. Each of the new franchises was provided with a Nixdorf computer system and suitable cancelling equipment, including the obsolete Registration Box. In the White Rock area “R” boxes were issued to Surrey - Ocean Park, Surrey - Sunshine Village Mall, and White Rock - Semiahmoo, which actually opened as White Rock Postal Outlet.

At the same time most of the other new Franchise “A” Postal Outlets were also issued with a “R” Registration Box. The “R” boxes because of the change in the Registration System were not required and as a result were never used on Registered Mail. A few, such as those shown at right, were obtained as favour markings and may be the only existing copies of these rare hand stamps.

To date these late usage Registration markings have attracted little or no interest among postal historians and as a result there is no comprehensive listing of the markings. For collectors looking for a new field of study, here is a topic that deserves careful study.

SURREY MUNICIPALITY - School District 36

The development of the postal system within the Surrey Municipality did not begin until 1881 with the establishment of Mud Bay Post Office located in the home of W. Woodward on the shores of Mud Bay. In 1883 Post Offices were opened at Clover Valley and Halls Prairie to serve the farming population on the Serpentine/ Nicomekl flats. Over the next ten years farm post offices opened at Cloverdale, Hazelmere, and Nicomekl to serve the expanding farming population.

Postal service along the Fraser River began with the Fraser River gold rush of 1858 at which time a post office was opened at New Westminster. In conjunction with the riverboats, the New Westminster post office served the needs of the few settlers living along the banks of the Fraser River between Ladner's Landing and Fort Langley. In 1891, the Brownsville Post Office was opened on the south side of the Fraser River opposite New Westminster and was located at the western terminus of the Yale Wagon Road and near the northern end of the Semiahmoo trail. This was the second post office in Surrey to be located on the Yale Wagon Road as the Clayton Post Office was opened, in 1889, at the junction of Hall's Prairie Road and the Yale Road in the home of J. George.

The population of Surrey Municipality continued to increase and new post offices were established, mainly in local stores, to meet the growing needs of the growing population. At the same time the early farm post offices, usually located in private homes, were closed or replaced by more traditional post offices located in the back of a general store.

Following the Second World War the population of Surrey Municipality began to expand rapidly and North Surrey was placed under the jurisdiction of the New Westminster Post Office while a small area near Semiahmoo Bay was placed under the jurisdiction of the White Rock Post Office. At first, the newly established post offices were designated as Postal Agencies (PA) which provided minimal service, but these were soon converted to Sub Post Offices (Sub) that provided full postal services. In later year these offices were designated Retail Postal Outlets (RPO) or Gross Marketing Outlets (GMO) but starting in 1989 many of the post offices were privatized and were upgraded to include computerized equipment and the attractive postal counters found in most Surrey post offices today. These Postal Outlets are named, but for postal purposes, the Postal Outlets are identified by a six digit RC number.

The end result is that a Post Office, such as Newton Station, might have remained in the same relative location but operated under a variety of designations. The table below lists the periods of use for these various designations.

| 1871 to 1950+ | Most Post Offices identified by name                            |

NEWTON STATION

The Newton Station Post Office is a good example of the problems faced in tracing the postal history of post offices located in Surrey Municipality. Although the post office remained in the same relative location, near the Newton Railway Station, at the corner of the King George Highway and Newton Road, it has changed name or status on at least six occasions. Whalleys Corner underwent a similar series of changes before becoming the Surrey Main Post Office.

The Newton Station Post Office was authorized by Post Office memo 63 dated, 27 February 1914, and was established on April 1st although it appears to have opened on March 24th with Lew Davies as Postmaster. A Type "A" hammer was proofed March 9. The post office was located at the intersection of the King George Highway (136th Street) and Newton Road (72nd Avenue) where the British Columbia Electric Railway crossed the King George Highway. The region developed quickly and the BCER soon built a 16 car siding at Newton.

Newton Station continued to operate as a rural post office until 1966 and during this period a number of rubber hand stamps were issued. Proof of some of these rubber hand stamps are shown below together with a few dated pieces.

In 1948 Newton Station was issued with a new Type "B" hammer which had been proofed on February 28 and about the same time a new Registration Box was issued. In the early 1950's a MOON date stamp was issued bearing the Accounting Number 9497. These hand stamps remained in use until the post office was converted to a named New Westminister Sub office in 1960.

On March 10, 1969, "North Surrey" became simply "Surrey" and at the same time the North Surrey - Newton office was converted to Surrey Sub 19 but retained the same accounting number 9497. In 1975 new accounting numbers were assigned to all Canadian Post Offices and Surrey Sub 19 was assigned number RC# 644803.

In 1990, Surrey Sub 19 closed and was moved to #101 13753 72nd Avenue and briefly operated as Surrey Sub 20 (RC# 012432) while awaiting conversion to Franchise "A" status. It is unlikely the Sub 20 equipment was issued.

NEW JEST SPRAY PRINTER INTRODUCE ON MLOCR 084

In late November a new style of Jet Spray Printers (JSP) were introduced into a number of Mail Processing Plants (MPP) in Canada and MLOCR 084 in Vancouver was modified by the addition of the new equipment which came into use on November 26. At first glance it appears that the new JSP equipment is similar in operation to the earlier equipment and has at least eight heads each containing five spray holes. Like the earlier equipment it appears that each line can be programmed to spray a variety of messages. Initially the postal code read "V6B 1Z1" but within a few days this was changed to read "V6B 1Y6" and during the start up period the test mode appears has been used to cancel the stamps. At time of press full details on the equipment were not available but it is hoped to obtain these before the next News Letter.
