STOP THE PRESS – Thanks to the assistance of Canada Post it is now possible to produce updates for the four western post office books. The updates will be based on the post office database and will cover the period 1990 to 2006. Further details will be in the next News Letter.

HISTORY OF LANGLEY POST OFFICE

The original Fort Langley was located at Derby some two and a half miles down the Fraser River from the present re-constructed fort. On November 18, 1858 the Derby site was re-located to the present fort and on November 19 James Douglas proclaimed the Province of British Columbia at the new fort. At about the same time a post office, using a colonial office ((26)) cancelling device, was established with W.H. Bevis as postmaster. The post office appears to have closed in 1861 but was re-established September 19, 1870 under the name of "Langley" with W.W. Gibbs as postmaster and the office continued after Confederation, in 1871, becoming a Dominion of Canada post office on July 1, 1872. In 1912 the name of the "Langley" post office was changed to "Langley Fort" and in 1925 the words were reversed and the name became "Fort Langley". The name "Langley" reappears as a postal name in 1955 when the "Langley Prairie" post office, which was established in 1883 on the Yale Road, was renamed "Langley"

Letter to Adam Vedder, first postmaster at Sardis (1888), and son of Volkert Vedder, after whom many features in the Sardis area are name. The letter was mailed from Langley on August 11, 1883 and arrived at Chilliwack the same day. Why it was forwarded to Yale, where it arrived the two days later, is not known but it is possible the Chilliwack postmaster knew that Mr. Vedder was visiting Yale and forwarded the letter there. Any better suggestions?

Note the name of the city is "Chilliwack" but the municipality was called "Chilliwack"

Clinton - FE 14 / 73

Malcolm Leitch pointed out that the Clinton cover on the front page of the last News Letter was not the earliest date and enclosed a cover mailed at Clinton dated February 14, 1873. The cover is back stamped New Westminster February 22, 1873 and at Victoria February 27, 1873, and is directed "via Olympia". There is no receiving mark but the letter passed through Port Townsend on March 1 and from there was forwarded via Olympia to Cowlitz, Washington Territory.

Early Dates for Post Offices opened in 1872

The early Clinton cover produced a number of responses including an earlier date than previously reported. It is well over ten years since the list of early dates was updated and it is time to see if any new dates have been reported.

Making Business Reply Mail Easier

 Performance Jan/Feb, 2007

Since the item in last month's News Letter the Post Office has introduced a new system of processing Business Reply Mail, and it is now possible for the mailer to create his own bar code label. The charge of 59 cents per returned letter still applies.

THERE'S SOME VERY GOOD NEWS afoot concerning Business Reply Mail (BRM).

"Our BRM customers can now use labels in two new ways," says Rachel Carriere, manager, Unaddressed Admail and Business Reply Mail.

First, customers can now use the BRM Artwork Online tool to create e-labels and provide them to their domestic and international customers through their websites or by email. Those consumers in turn will then be able to create a pre-addressed, pre-paid response envelope by printing the label on regular paper, cutting and taping or gluing the label to the top right corner of a business envelope—and then simply dropping it in the mail.

"This will be particularly helpful for BRM customers who require a cancelled cheque or signed papers returned from consumers they are dealing with through their website," says Carriere.

Second, BRM customers who want to update existing envelopes or cards that display outdated BRM artwork can now contact their sales representatives to obtain updated artwork that can be printed on labels and applied over old artwork. "In July 2007, the new barcode will make it possible for Canada Post to automatically sort and count Business Reply Mail," adds Carriere. BS

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

Pictures of post offices have fascinated many postal historians and Matt Hedley has provided this item from Popular Stamps showing the post office at Alvaston - c. 1912.

Canada's Smallest Post Office?

A picture recently appeared in the "Canadian National Magazine" of what was alleged to be the smallest Post Office in Canada, depicting a frame building about 6x6x7 ft. high.

The man in the picture (although his friends may not know it) is the writer.—R. M. Angus.

This Post Office shown here, was discovered by the writer some 35 years ago at a place that practically did not exist, near Oyama, which is about midway between Kelowna and Vernon, named Alvaston.

I think it takes first place as the smallest "Post Office" Canada ever had.

You can almost gauge the size of the packing case, which constituted the "Post Office", from my height, standing beside it. I would say at a good guess that it was:—Front 2 ft., 3 inches high, back 2 ft. 9 inches high, width 1 ft. 8 inch.

On raising the lid of the packing case, my friend and I discovered a tea caddy containing about a dollar's worth of stamps. The few persons who used this "Post Office" were supposed to help themselves and deposit the money for the stamps taken which were few. The privilege was never abused so far as I know, and the mail was cleared by a stage driver in the horse and buggy days, whenever he happened to be passing.

FROM CANADA POST - Openings and closing for 2006

Again thanks to John Gannon, and his new assistant Jim Walker, of the staff at the Pacific Division of the Canada Post Corporation, we are able to provide a listing of the opening and closing dates for post offices in the Pacific Division. The format in which the information is provided is similar to previous listings and as a result some changes of ownership may be shown as separate closings and openings rather than as changed to ... used in earlier listings. The listings below are for 2006 and may overlap some previous listings.

Also in some cases, such as Terra Nova PO and East Richmond PO, a temporary RC# number, that lasted a few days, was issued during a change of ownership and it appears that these RC#s were never used on daters. In some cases these temporary numbers are listed as either opening or closing but not both.

NON STANDARD DATERS

In the last News Letter it was stated that the illustrating of new date stamps would be limited to pictorial daters and non-standard dating equipment. Thus date stamps simply showing all or most of the following information—the RC#, the date, the name of the outlet, the city/town, BC, and the postal code—would not be illustrated. The above position seems to have stimulated an outflow of non-standard daters, with many being related to re-directed mail. A selection of those received during the last few months are reproduced below. Thanks again to those who sent in copies and keep the supply coming.
