Dear Jon,

Mental health affects the way we think, feel, and act. When our mental health declines, it's harder to handle life's challenges. Laura experienced mental health challenges in her home country, but seeking support was considered taboo.

When she moved to Canada, Laura continued to struggle

Promote your organization with custom indicia

Canada Post has given marketers more real estate for promoting their organization. The upper-right corner of an envelope, self-mailer or postcard can now be used for marketing purposes. Indicia for lettermail and addressed admail can be customized to display an organization's logo, products or services, or marketing messages. The templates for custom indicia are available from Canada Post's website. Each custom template is composed of reserved elements, the customer number, and the customer visual area. The reserved elements are:

- the perforated border
- Canada Post's logo
- the service name

The customer number is to be inserted in a sans serif font such as Arial or Myriad; the number should be between 2 and 5 mm tall. The visual area is set aside for various kinds of elements:

- customer logo
- text
- graphic or image

Customers need Canada Post's approval of their proposed artwork before applying it to any mailings. Once approval is obtained, the indicia may be used any number of times. Approval is obtained by emailing a copy of the completed artwork to the following address: customizedindicia@canadapost.ca. Most organizations will have little difficulty in arranging approval, since the general guideline is that images and text must be suitable for family audiences. Canada Post does, however, reserve the right to refuse any proposed artwork at its sole discretion. For assistance in creating the customized indicia, obtaining approval, or using the artwork in a mailing, contact your Lowe-Martin representative or email me at joe.goski@LMGroup.com.
